This course is designed to develop the ability to produce clear writing in a variety of genres and formats using a recursive process. Upon completion, students should be able to produce unified, coherent, well-developed essays using standard written English. This course has been approved for transfer under the Comprehensive Articulation Agreement as a general education course in English Composition. This is a Universal Education Transfer Component (UGETC) course for the A.A. and A.S. degrees.

Course Goals
Effort will be concentrated in four major areas:
1. Writing Process: Mastering the prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing process within the required time constraints; developing the ability to judge one’s own work effectively. (See Section 1 in The Little, Brown Handbook.)
2. Development of Ideas: Expanding ideas into well-developed, unified and coherent essays. (See Sections 1 and 2 in The Little, Brown Handbook.)
3. Effective Expression: Developing language appreciation and expression through elements of punctuation, grammar, sentence structure, and diction. (See Sections 4-8 in The Little, Brown Handbook.)
Course Emphasis

English 111—based on individual and group activities, class discussions, reading, and teacher/student conferences—focuses on the following writing tasks introduced in Patterns of Reflection: A Reader, The Little, Brown Handbook, and Guides to Writing with Microsoft Word:

1. Demonstrate writing as a recursive process. (Revision/Editing Strategies)
2. Demonstrate writing and inquiry in context using different rhetorical strategies to reflect, analyze, explain, and persuade in a variety of genres and formats.
3. Reflect on and explain writing strategies.
4. Demonstrate the critical use of and examination of digital, visual, and alphabetic texts.
5. Locate, evaluate, and incorporate relevant sources with proper documentation. (Just an assignment, not an entire research report)
6. Compose texts incorporating rhetorically effective and conventional use of language.
7. Collaborate actively in a writing community. (Peer editing)

Student Competencies

Completed compositions must demonstrate the following skills:

1. An engaging introduction leading to a thesis.
2. Thorough and interesting development of the thesis in unified, coherent paragraphs written in a variety of modes, with effective transitions.
3. An appropriate conclusion.
4. Standard forms of grammar, punctuation, spelling, capitalization, and diction.

College Attendance Policy

Because the college realizes that academic success is tied to regular attendance, students are expected to attend all class sessions. You are expected to be in class and on time daily. You may not exceed 3 absences within a semester in order to receive credit. Additionally, you will accrue 1 absence for every 3 tardies/early departures to/from class.

Absence from class must be explained satisfactorily to the instructor in writing within three days of a missed class, and the student is held responsible for all work missed. It is up to you to present the written explanation of your absence to me within this window. Additionally, you need to keep a record of your days missed and the reasons in case you need to appeal at the end of the semester.

Unsatisfactory attendance may adversely affect a student’s grade for the course. Any student who violates the attendance policy of the course during the first eight weeks (or half-way through a summer session) of the semester may be required to drop the course. Any student who violates the attendance policy of the course during the last eight weeks of the semester may be required to withdraw from the course with a grade of “WP” or “FW”, depending upon his/her grade in the course at the time of withdrawal.

Attendance is a part of your overall grade in this class (see Grading Policies for further details).

Class sessions that are missed by late-enrolling students will be counted as absences.

Students will not be charged when an absence is due to participation in an activity approved by the dean of instruction or the dean of student services.

Instructor-Initiated Drop or Withdrawal

An instructor may drop or withdraw a student from a course under any of the following conditions:

- Student misses more than five consecutive class hours, or the student fails to meet the attendance policy of the course;
- Student is absent from the final exam without the instructor’s permission;
- Student misconduct.
